Market Bulletin Holiday Ad Deadline

Due to the upcoming holiday season, the deadline for the January 3, 2008 issue will be Tuesday, December 18, 2007, noon.

Weathers Supports Ag Census

Farm families gathered throughout the United States this Thanksgiving to count their many blessings and give thanks for another successful harvest. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) now urges them to ensure their farm or ranch is counted in the 2007 Census of Agriculture. The Census is a crucial tool that provides farmers with a voice in the future of their community and all of agriculture.

Conducted every five years by the USDA, the Census is a complete count of the nation's farms and ranches and the people who operate them. The Census looks at land use and ownership, operator characteristics, production practices, income and expenditures and other topics. It provides the only source of uniform, comprehensive agricultural data for every county in the nation.

"Thanksgiving is the perfect time to remind farmers how important they are and how much the nation appreciates their hard work," said NASS Administrator Ron Bosecker. "It's also a good time to remind them that they have a voice and a responsibility to use that voice to make a better future. Tools like the Census enable farmers to help shape the future of agriculture and their local communities. To do this, we urge them to speak out and let their voices be heard by participating in the 2007 Census of Agriculture."

NASS will mail out Census forms on December 28, 2007 to collect data for the 2007 calendar year. Completed forms are due by February 4, 2008. Producers can return their forms by mail or, for the first time, they have the convenient option of filling out the Census online. For more information about the Census, visit www.agcensus.usda.gov or call toll-free 888-4AG-STAT or 888-424-7828.

2007 South Carolina Equine Industry Scholarships

Kaitlyn Puryear, Leesville and Carol Deacon, SC Horsemen's Council

The SC Farm Bureau and the SC Horsemen's Council recently presented scholarships for $1000 and $500, respectively, at the SC State Fair. Ten young ladies participated in the event that was open to South Carolina residents in grades 10, 11, and 12 or who are enrolled in a college four-year program or a recognized technical college program. Morgan Conrad from Rock Hill won the $1000 SC Farm Bureau first place scholarship and Kaitlyn Puryear of Leesville won the $500 SCHC second place scholarship.

South Carolina Agriculture Year in Review

The end of the year is almost here and it's time to put the past year in perspective. Looking back on the state of agriculture, there seems to be more good news than bad news.

A positive step forward for the Department this past year was the launch of our Certified South Carolina campaign in May. Since that time, we called on consumers to "Ask for South Carolina," but when they go to the store, we asked them to "Buy South Carolina" because "Nothing's Fresher. Nothing's Finer." In a recent report, 90% of those interviewed said that they want food that is "fresher."

The Certified South Carolina campaign, the first fully-funded branding and marketing program for South Carolina agriculture, is a 3-year plan to aggressively market and promote all of South Carolina agriculture. Plans are to extend the program to restaurants and foodservice to inspire chefs and restaurateurs to feature South Carolina products on the menu as much as possible.

South Carolina wins first Eastern Nationals top honor, scholarship

South Carolina now has its first National 4-H Round-Up Champion! Haley Bishop from Newberry, who is a member of Lexington County 4-H, won Champion honors in Individual Presentation at the Eastern Nationals.

Haley has been a member of the 4-H horse program for several years and already has been to nationals in Hippology and Horse Bowl. Earlier this year, she was out of commission recovering from brain surgery and had some very serious complications, but Haley didn't let it slow her down for long.

Haley received a $500 scholarship from the American Quarter Horse Association (AQHA) as well as a ribbon and trophy from the North American International Livestock Exposition, and a trophy sponsored by the Tennessee Walking Horse Breeders and Exhibitors Association (TWHBEA).

Fae Herbert is Haley's volunteer leader and coach. Fae has had over 30 years as a volunteer in the Virginia 4-H horse program prior to retiring to South Carolina. She has helped train many volunteers in coaching horse judging and has provided advice in getting the State 4-H Horse Bowl contest established. Fae has volunteered to lead a session on "Coaching 4-H Presentations" at the Leader Symposium in January '08 prior to the trip.

In addition to Haley's success, the 4-H Hippology Team was 5th High Team in the Judging Phase of the Hippology Contest. Team members included Sarah Folsom, Katie Skinner, Tim Steele, and Jessica Rawl. Coaches for the Hippology Team were Cornelia Folsom and Bonnie Steele.

Also, representing South Carolina at the Eastern Nationals were Horse Bowl team members Olivia Taylor, Ally Merritt, Brittany Caitlin, Joye Dimsdale and Erik Christmas. Karen Merritt served as coach.

The group had the opportunity to tour the Kentucky Horse Park and Churchill Downs while at the Eastern Nationals.

For more information, contact Elizabeth R. Buist, 4-H Horse Specialist, 864-942-8590, ext 113, and visit the 4-H Horse Website at <http://www.clemson.edu/4H/programs/agnatres/horse/horse.htm>.

Register Now for the 2008 South Carolina Conservation Partnership Conference

The annual South Carolina Conservation Partnership Conference will take place in Myrtle Beach January 16-18, 2008, at Kingston Plantation. This year's theme is "South Carolina at the Crossroads—The Future of Our Water." The deadline to register is December 31, 2007, and you can print and mail in a registration form by visiting www.dnr.sc.gov/conservation/conference.

You can also view a draft agenda and learn more about exhibit and sponsorship opportunities at the same website. Sponsorship pledges must be received by November 15th.

The conference will focus on the challenges that South Carolina may face in the near future concerning water quality and quantity. Featured speakers include local, regional, and national conservationists who will address a range of topics including watershed assessment, defining resource concerns in impaired watersheds, and how to deal with water quantity concerns.

Special guest speaker at the opening luncheon is Tom Lester, better known as Eb from the popular television series, Green Acres. Mr. Lester is a strong supporter of conservation and natural resources planning.

If you would like more information about the conference, or about exhibiting and/or sponsorships, please contact Mary Hill at 864-229-3004, ext. 101.

The conference is jointly sponsored with the SC Association of Conservation Districts, the SC Department of Natural Resources, and the USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service.

Artificial Insemination of Cattle

Clemson University's Department of Animal and Veterinary Sciences will be sponsoring a cattle A.I. training school. The A.I. School will be held Tuesday, January 8, 2008 through Thursday, January 10, 2008. Personnel from American Breeders Service and Clemson University will be the instructors. The cost is $400 for producers and students. A deposit of $200 is required to hold a class place. The enrollment is limited to the first 20 participants for each school. The school consists of 16 hours of classroom lectures and 16 hours of laboratories in breeding technique, semen handling and other aspects of artificial insemination.

Classes will begin promptly at 8:30 a.m. each day and usually conclude by 8:00 p.m.

South Carolina Agriculture Year in Review

Watch for the print and broadcast ads that will be running this spring. We have over 300 charter members in the Certified South Carolina program now with new applications arriving daily. If you want to become a charter member, visit www.certifiedSCgrown.com.

Another positive step for South Carolina agriculture has been the increase in the number of Community-based Farmers Markets. In fact, in the past four years, the number of markets has doubled. We are now working with over 70 local community-based farmers markets in the state and a half dozen in the works for this coming spring. Farmers markets give small farmers a way to supplement their farm income. They give consumers access to locally grown, farm fresh products. When small farmers go out of business, communities suffer.

This year marks the 25th anniversary of the Department's Small Farms Program, the first such program in the nation. Our Small Farms Program Manager coordinates and conducts training in marketing, so that farmers can participate in the WIC and Seniors Farmers Market Nutrition Programs. This past year, 290 farmers who provided fresh produce to more than 40,000 nutritionally at-risk families in 34 counties were trained and certified by our staff. We have been able to increase the number of citizens served without increasing the size of staff by leveraging resources and developing partnerships.

More and more, consumers want to know the origin of their food. This past summer, several of our inspectors were trained in Country of Origin Labeling (COOL) to ensure that food is not misrepresented to consumers. The Retail Surveillance Audit Procedures are applicable to retail facilities licensed under the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act (PACA). In cooperation with the federal government, our inspectors are conducting Surveillance Audits at retail facilities designated by the USDA.

More good news is that the prospect for attractive farm gate prices looks bright for the next few years. Much of the good news depends on the old supply and demand economics. More use of grains and less grain stocks provide opportunities for higher farm prices. Milk production prices have stabilized, in part because of the South Carolina Milk Producers Tax Credit Program which began with the 2005 tax year. In fact, the last USDA report showed that South Carolina had a 14% increase in milk production in the last year, higher than any other state in the nation. The projection for the next quarter is even more impressive at 20%. The program is designed to provide a tax credit to milk producers when prices are low. When prices are high, like they are now, tax credits are not offered. Because South Carolina's dairies were able to remain in production during the difficult times, they are now able to take advantage of the current record high prices. That's important. If our dairies can weather the bad times, they can stay in business and provide consumers with a locally grown product.

Good news arrived last June for farmers and the environment. The Department was able to acquire funds to implement the South Carolina Waste Pesticide Recovery Program. The program is designed to help farmers, foresters, and nurserymen safely dispose of their old, outdated, unusable or unwanted pesticides. This is a true "amnesty" program whereby participants remain anonymous (no cost, risk-free, and confidential). The Department has leveraged state funds through an EPA grant to extend the outreach of the program. The Department will forego any indirect costs and will only use the funds for direct costs of the project allowing more for the collection itself. The actual collection is scheduled to begin next spring.

With crude oil hovering at nearly $100 a barrel, the price of fuel keeps on rising. High prices fuel the market for ethanol and biodiesel. In June, the General Assembly passed key legislation which created the South Carolina Renewable Energy Infrastructure Development Fund. The Fund is designed primarily to develop a strong renewable energy industry, to redirect a significant portion of energy expenditures leaving the state into South Carolina's economy, and to foster a cleaner, healthier, more productive environment by reducing the adverse impacts of fossil fuel use. In September, we called for renewable energy proposals as part of the program. Any public or private entity with an eligible project may apply. South Carolina will benefit from new opportunities for farmers and businesses and through encouragement of economic development in rural areas.

With respect to the future of the Columbia State Farmers Market, I have been guided by two principals - to ensure that farmers in South Carolina are served effectively and that public funds are utilized as efficiently as possible. The Farmers Market project that was studied, approved, and funded by the General Assembly has unfortunately met insurmountable challenges. However, recently a private-public partnership approached me with a new site in Lexington County. In light of the developments surrounding the partnership, I have suspended activity at the Shop Road site while giving this initiative time to develop. If these plans come to full fruition, my staff and I would be fully committed to cooperate and assist with the development of the South Carolina State Farmers Market at the new Lexington site. A new Farmers Market, combined with our new program in the Department of Agriculture of promoting Certified South Carolina, will create an opportunity for an even greater impact on the agricultural economy in our state.

Now, for the bad news. . . Farmers, foresters, and landscapers have suffered this past year because of serious disasters. We lost most of our peaches and other early crops to a late freeze on Easter. Disaster funding for the freeze was approved and appropriations were made, and for that, our farmers are grateful. However, like farmers in other states, particularly those in the Southeast, they are currently suffering from on-going drought conditions. Our crop yields are down, irrigation ponds are drying up, hay is in short supply, and producers are being forced to cull their herds. In order to facilitate hay movement, we are posting "need hay" and "have hay" ads on our Hay Exchange daily. If growers/producers do not have access to the Internet, they may contact us by phone. Also, look for ads in the Market Bulletin.

That's the state of agriculture in South Carolina for 2007. All of us in this business wait and hope for the right weather at the right time and in the right place. I ask you to join me in praying for the relief that we need in every area to move forward in 2008 and pray that God will bless America and South Carolina!

Weathers Supports Ag Census

Go to the following link to find a voice recording (MP3) from Hugh Weathers, Commissioner of Agriculture for the State of South Carolina. Commissioner Weathers recorded this PSA in the hopes that broadcast outlets throughout the state will help publicize the ag census and encourage farmers to fill it out and send it in before the February 4, 2008 deadline.

Lexington FFA members grow poinsettias to decorate Governor's Mansion

Students from the Lexington Technology Center's horticulture program continued their five-year tradition of providing poinsettias to decorate the Governor's Mansion for the Christmas Season when they delivered the plants on Monday, November 26.

The poinsettias were grown by the students in the technology center's new state-of-the-art greenhouse as part of their hands-on training in Horticulture and Greenhouse Operation. The poinsettias were presented to South Carolina's First Lady Jenny Sanford at the Mansion by the students and their Horticulture Science Instructor Tommy Harmon, along with Bryce Myers, Assistant Director of the Technology Center. The plants will be used for decoration of the historic landmark by the Columbia Garden Club. Following the presentation, the students were given a tour of the Mansion.

"The green industry is among the fastest growing aspects of agriculture in South Carolina and the Lexington Technology Center has one of the outstanding Horticulture programs in the nation," according to John W. Parris, a spokesman for the SC FFA Association.

In addition to participating in the State Fair Horseshow, candidates submitted a resume and were interviewed by three equine industry professionals. If this was not enough, candidates also took a written knowledge assessment consisting of 50 questions covering various aspects of equine husbandry and the equine industry and showcased their skills in showmanship and horsemanship.

Both hunt seat and western disciplines were equally on display. The participants were excited by the process and the winners were thrilled to receive their scholarships.
